

MUSTANG HIGH SCHOOL ARMY JROTC PROGRAM
UNARMED COMPETITIVE DRILL COURSE SYLLABUS
PRIMARY INSTRUCTORS: CSM JESSE J. BATTS JR. & MSG JORGE E. MOREIRA

Competitive Drill Class:

Students must be enrolled as a LET II - IV in the Mustang High School JROTC program to participate in this class; admittance is by instructor approval. Second semester LET-s may be admitted on a case by case basis with the instructor's approval.

Purpose: The primary objective of this class is to prepare students to compete in local and regional JROTC Drill Meet competitions where the teams are judged on their precision, teamwork and attention to detail as they execute rehearsed and unannounced military style regulation and exhibition marching routines. Drill routines are practiced, choreographed and performed in sequence with precision and attention to details. These teams usually consist of 6 to 10 cadets. Participation of each team member is essential for the successful completion of the team routine; a team member that continuously misses practice, is unable or unwilling to participate will be removed from the primary team. Additionally, they may not be allowed to travel to competition(s). A student that fails to participate in competition will receive a zero (0) grade for the event, and a makeup assignment will be made available to the cadet as an opportunity to makeup zero (0) grade. If the cadet continues the pattern of non-participation and fails to participate shall not be retained and denied enrollment in class, the following semester.

There are numerous subcategories of drill teams, but the two major categories are "Regulation" and "Exhibition."

- Regulation Drill Competition- (In accordance with Army Regulation TC 3-21.5), requires the team and its commander to execute a predetermined series of formation drill maneuvers in sequence with precision and attention to detail in accordance with Military Field Manual for the indicated drill. The drill routines normally last 3 to 4 minutes. In some competitions teams must stand a formal inspection prior to competing with points deducted for each uniform discrepancy or question answered incorrectly. The team with the highest score wins the event.
- Exhibition Drill Competition- also requires the team and its commander to execute a predetermined series of formation drill maneuvers in sequence with precision and attention to detail. In exhibition drill competition each team is allowed to execute their own choreographed routines. The teams are judged much like freestyle figure skating on the level of difficulty, the skill and coordination required to perform the routine, and how well they actually perform the routine. The routines normally last 5 to 7 minutes. In some competitions teams must stand a formal inspection prior to competing with points deducted for each uniform discrepancy or question answered incorrectly. The team with the highest score wins the event.
- Performance Team- opportunities may arise for teams to conduct non-graded performances, such as middle school recruiting trip, school assemblies and other various events, gatherings and ceremonies.
